

Henry Danger

Act 1: Scene 1

[In the living room of large but untidy house, three children are having a conversation. One child, a boy, is stood in the kitchen which adjoins the living room. Another child, also a boy, sits on the sofa while using a laptop. A third child, a girl, is attempting to complete some Algebra homework that she is finding difficult. The children are friends, but the girls is frustrated that the two boys are preventing her from focussing on her school work]

Boy 1: (moving from the kitchen to the living room and showing a picture on a phone) Did you guys here what Captain Man did yesterday?

Girl: (exasperated) Can we focus on Algebra?

Boy 1: (continuing to talk excitedly – ignoring his the last question) There was a fire in a pet store and Captain Man rushed inside and saved all the animals. And he didn't even get hurt!

Boy 2: (agreeing) Captain Man never gets hurt! He's a beast!

Girl: (sarcastically rolling her eyes) You know, some day, when you guys are cleaning my pool because you failed this Algebra test and flunked out of school, I hope you remember this moment because I will!

Boy 2: (interrupts) Hey! Here's a cool job I could do! (putting his foot on the table with a loud bang) Foot model!
