

The baby gorilla song

A baby gorilla's got a hairy tummy
A hairy face and a hairy mummy
God knows just how many hairs he's got
Even though it's an awful lot

A warthog's face is a terrible sight
Though to other warthogs it looks alright
Smelly husband, ugly wife
God knows the problems of a warthog's life

The winter's a problem if you're a giraffe
Cos it's hard to find a big enough scarf
God knew the problems a giraffe might face
So he gave them a home in a very warm place

A sparrow's life is a delicate thing
With his knobbly knees and his fragile wings
He doesn't brush his teeth or comb his hair
Or fret about his food or what he's going to wear

We humans can worry our lives away
'Til our teeth fall out and our hair goes grey
If we put God first and do what he says
Then the rest of our life will fall into place
