

The rainforest is like the layers of a sandwich
(The biggest sandwich around).

If you go to the very top of the trees

The emergent layer can be found.

Sunlight is plentiful up at the top,

The emergents dash for the light.

They're head and shoulders above the rest

Having won the competitive fight.

There's a warning for those who don't like heights;

Here is a definite NO.

The emergents can be sixty meters in height.

Perhaps we should head down below?